

Getting Help

The Learning Commons in Scott Library houses services offered by Learning Skills, the Libraries, and the Writing Centre. See <http://www.library.yorku.ca/cms/learning-commons/> for more information about these services in Scott Library or below for links to their individual webpages.

Learning Skills (<http://lss.info.yorku.ca/>)

Learning Skills Services provide workshops, drop-in sessions, and one-on-one sessions about “learning how to learn”, helping students achieve their academic goals, and improving student effectiveness and efficiency at studying and completing tests and assignments.

Libraries (<http://www.library.yorku.ca>)

York University Libraries provide workshops, drop-in sessions, and one-on-one reference consultations (in-person or online) that provide guidance on effectively finding appropriate research materials for an assignment, and with properly citing sources in academic work.

Writing Centre (http://www.yorku.ca/laps/writ/writing\_centre.html)

The Writing Centre offers individual instruction in all aspects of writing to help with the development of effective strategies for addressing problems that typically arise in the writing process. These may include understanding the purpose of an assignment, organizing research notes, getting started at writing, and learning to edit.

At Glendon College, see the Glendon Writing Centre (<http://www.glendon.yorku.ca/writingcentre>).
